

Dalia Galal Eldin El-Abady, 2013.

Determinants of Child Situation in Egypt, 2008. (313)

The study mainly focuses on investigating the differentials of the Egyptian child situation. The objectives of his study are as follows:

- Analyze the deprivation levels among children in Egypt.
- Investigate the relationship between children's education and some demographic and socio-economic variables.
- Examine the effect of these variables on children's education by sex.
- Investigate the relationship between children's mortality and some demographic and socio-economic variable.
- To investigate the discrimination levels against females from the health view.

This study uses raw data from Egyptian Demographic and Health Survey (EDHS, 2008).

Finally the study is based on both descriptive and in-depth analysis (regression model) to achieve the objectives.